

We're woodworkers; we're not web designers.

Even though Clyde and I both possess passable expertise on certain computer programs we need to run our commercial woodworking business, neither of us had a clue how to design a website. And yet we knew we needed one to extend our marketing arena for Clyde's new creative work, a line of handcrafted slab-style tables. The thought of building a site myself was pretty terrifying, since I felt that a poorly-designed, home-built website would do our business more harm than good.

And so I turned to NC Web Designs, and we are so grateful to Patricia for the beautiful job she did! Our site is clean, professional, and easy to navigate, which is all I asked for. Beyond that, though, she made it eye-catching and distinctive with a custom-designed logo and appealing format, so that we are proud to say our website is exceptional.

Patricia also thought of details I didn't know to request, and read my mind on a few things I didn't express clearly.

Thank you, Patricia, for a thoughtfully designed and quickly finished project! I would recommend you to anyone.

Respectfully submitted,

Sheri Haymore
